NOTES AND COMMENTS.

War, war, war, and nothing but war has been in the mouths of everyone for the past three months, and yet, as we have before remarked, there has been little to record and still less accomplished. It is the Spanish Reserve Squadron that is now occupying public attention and is apparently likely to do so for some time to come. First it had sailed for Cuba and was expected to rush to the assistance of going to the Philippines. Admiral CERYERA, and then, a day or two afterwards, it was discovered to be still lying snugly, is Cadiz harbour from which it had never stirred, except in the fervid imagination of some correspondent. Then another correspondent sent it to sea with sealed orders, and it was allowed to remain at sea for nearly a month without being heard incorporation of the political parties in opposiof until it is again discovered in Cadiz ition to the Government. It is reported that a harbour, for which haven of refuge it appears to possess a peculiar affinity. At length it is reported as having left Cadiz and is sighted off Gibraltar and after it discovers an affinity for another to support the proposal,

Spanish port and turns up at home once more. Since then we have been assured on the authority of no less a person than the Spanish Minister of Marine that it is really and truly bound for the Philippines. Still it is a long while in reaching any place where definite news of it can be gained, and we are almost led to believe that Admiral Camara is a nineteenthcentury Philip Vandendecken, and may make his appearance some stormy night in the middle of Manila Bay or any where else where least expected by the | barce. Americans.

Then we have the American squadron bringing reinforcements for Admiral DEWEY, and these too have taken a long, long while to come within reasonable distance of anywhere; but the Dorle, which arrived here yesterday, brought Honolulu exchanges from which we gather that the American transports arrived at that port on the 1st instant and salled again on the 4th for the Philippines expecting to reach Manila yesterday. The Americans were warmly welcomed at Honolulu and a large American flag was presented to the Captain of the Charleston while the men were Special terms to Horazs, Crues, Masses and entertained on all hands as the following clipping from a Honolulu paper shows:-

"We have wined, dined and feasted a lot of men, whom the ladies of this town wouldn't lead at if they met them in their ordinary clothes of workingmen loaiers. We have placed the Government of Dole in a very unenviable posttion and faid the country open to severe punishment. We have done this to endanger the digestion and general health of a number of good young men who would have fared much better if they had gone direct to Manile and avoided our potato salads and ginger bust.

"While the "boys in blue" are getting over their dyspensis and their mango fever the great powers are deciding what to do with Hawaii. We shall certainly not to annexed, and the natural question is "what next."

While, however, the whole of the Colony has been anxiously following the slow progress of the Spanish-American war and awaiting news of victory to one side or the other, a war has been waging that affects us to fully as great an extent as that between America and Spain, and a victory has been won which will have more lasting effects and bring more benefit to the Colony and the world at large than can any naval or military exploit. We refer to the announcement by Mr. CHAMBERLAIN that the Contagious Diseases Ordinance will be once more enforced in Hongkong, which is a brilliant victory for science and commonsense over ignorance, prudery, and false modesty, Much outery has been made against certain ladies who opposed the act, but it must be remembered that they acted with the best intentions and according to their own ideas of right and purity If they were able to curb vice. effectually without legislation we should be among the very first to support them, but, as Rudyand Kipling remarks, "Single men in Barracks don't grow into abolition of state regulation of vice has not yet arrived.

Once again we must congratulate the local branch of the Navy League, for they, together with the China Association, have worked hard for the re-enforcement of the Act in Hongkong, and their labours, as in the case of the extension of the Kowloon frontier, have been crowned by success." One of the results of victory, and by no means the least, will be the restricting of brothels to certain quarters of the town, which will make police supervision more H.M.S. Powerful arrived at Yokohama on 16th "gree of organic purity and is easy, and will remove many annoyances to which those whose circumstances compel them to live in the more crowded parts of the city have long been exposed. We hope, however, that there will be something more than a mere re-enactment of the old ordinance. It stood largely in need of amendment, and before it can come usefully into operation a new Lock. Hospital will have to be provided.

The Chief Justice-Of course, there is very great difference between the case of the first and seconddefendants. Thatla my opinion atpresent. The Attorney General then pointed out that the second def ndant was sitting on a table with a paper and pencil in his hand and packets of money on the table, the total amount of one of which corresponded with the figures in the paper In his hand.

Mr. Francis-I think I said at first that there was some case against the first but with regard to the second there is a serious difference.
The Chief Justice—In my own mind I have a clear opinion as to what he came from Macao for but at the same time there is no evidence to prove it. I think, Mr. Attorney, you will find it very difficult to support a conviction in this case. The Attorney-General said that he should open the case with regard to the first and second. The Chief Justice said that according to practice the appaliants, f.s. Mr. Francis, should open. The Pulsne Judge concurred, The Chief Justice-We call upon you, Mr.

Francis, to support your appeal with regard to the first defendant. Mr. Francis said he abandoned the appear against the first. He submitted that with regard to this man for the first offerce, the punishment way too heavy. It was the maximum penalty and there was no previous conviction againm him and he asked their Lordships to midlly the sentence. With reference to the money in the sale. the purpose of gambling nor was it found on the person of the keeper. The money amounted to The Palene Judge-You want the money given up? Mr Francis-Yes. The Palene Judge-Well, who to? Mr. Francis said what he wanted was that an order should be made by the Court as to whether or not the money was used for the purpose of gambling. Was there sufficient evidence, he seked, on the face of the depositions to justify their Lordships in finding that the money was actually used for the purpose of gambling? There was grave suspicion but there was no more evidence than in the case of the second defeedant

The Attorney General argued at great length

that the decision of the Magistrate should be upheld with regard to the second defendant. The Chief Justice-The result of the hearing is this, that with regard to the third, fourth and fifth appellants, the Attorney General feels that he cannot support the conviction in the Court below and, therefore the result is that with togard to them, the decision of the Magistrate is reversed and the information sgainst these months, and then in order to make up the full 1798 that we realise what a magnificent rule she term of nine months, he has also awarded the is,

of paper on which two sums of monog are mentioned. These two soms correspond with two bundles of money which were in the room, one on the table within his reach. The numbers are written in pencil and he has in his brand? pencil which undoubtedly makes marks ofthat kind. I think this is the burden of the buildence against him. Is that sufficient to cuable to to say that he was essisting in conducting the business of that Welsing Lattery? I confess in regard to all the circumstances I am not able to say so. Although in fact, the circumstances are against him they are quite consistent with Tung Chung ust here and he yesterday sent off his innecence. Being there, I do not myselfee any reason why he might not have sat on that table and with a pencil in his hand and he quite innocent. I will go further, I do not think that even if the Court is satisfied that he wrote the numbers that it necessarily indicates that he has any connection with the Lottery business. It might be that the first defendant requested him to write the amount. On the whole I think although no doubt one may strongly suspect that the second appellant was engaged in this after times they went at it and rowed builness and came over in connection with it, yet it appears to me that we will be doing wrong and siraining the law if we hold that he was a keeper of the gambling house. Therefore, the conviction, so far as he is concerned, is reversed and the information dismissed. Then the only other question is with regard to the money. The Magistrate made an order forfeiting the whole of the money, papers and implements found in the house and the place was adjudicated heads and the sweating coolies plied their pad- by the Magistrate to be a common gambling dies with all the spirit of Oxford and Cambridge | house within the ordinance. Therefore it is clear that the bundles of money with marked coins were used for the purpose of gambling. It appears only one stage further to At the Supreme Court to-day in Appellate say that all bundles of money on the table and Jurisdiction, before Sir J. W. SYDNEY, June 1st. "A plague of both your houses" is what the average citizen feels, if he does not say it, whenever he picks up his daily paper. Column after column of Federation speeches, letters and articles, together with anti-federation dittor have fairly tired us. One paper insists that you shall vote " no " for the Convention bill, and points out nothing but ruin for the Colony If it is carried, and other journals sgain give countless reasons why you should vote yes." A SWORD FOR ADMIRAL DEWEY.

A Bill has been passed, says a Washington dispatch dated the 27th pit., providing for "the honouring of Rear-Admiral Dewey and his brave men, who fought so well in Manila bay," The Bill carries an appropriation for giving a memorial sword to the Rear-Admiral and bronze medals to all the officers and men who were engaged in the fight.

GEORGE THE SECOND.

The Box of Curios of 18th inst. gives an excellent portrait of Admiral Dewey and in an article under the above heading the paper

The Christian name of George has always been prominent in the history of the United States in the past, for it represented a nation's here in the person of the Father of his Country, It's glory is not to be dimmed through not being able to perpetuate it by noble deeds, for another George has continued its glorious lustre in the person of the naval hero of Manile, Both Georges have been truthful, for when the immortal Washington cut down the cherry tree and his paternal parent stood by with a strap to wallop him, the first George realized that Truth under the apparent conditions, was the best policy and so in reply to the old man's question said: "Father, I cannot tell a ile. I did it with my little hatchet."

It turns out that Admiral George Dawsy is the same kind of a trath-speaker, for when we asked him how it was he pummelled the Spapiards so at Manila he bravely spoke up "Boxle. I cannot tell a lie. I did it with my

George Washington became noted for his truthfulness and the brave deeds performed during the Colonial War and, for his goodness and greatness, his picture has been handed down to the present day and every little child is familiar with each feature. To-day George Dewcy deserves to be treated likewise and, as a starter. Boxis presents his picture to the world as one being worthy to be honoured by his countrymen; he has already been praised by all nations as a hero both modest and brave. He needs 'no praise at our hands, even if we were competent to sound them, for his name is already indelibly engraved upon the tablets of the memories of his countrymen and indelibly, inscribed upon the pages o history-two spots that will ever remain green
